About Planet Youth

Planet Youth is an evidence-based primary prevention project that provides us with the opportunity to improve the long-term health and wellbeing of our children.

Every two years, we survey all of the 15 and 16 year olds in our schools in Galway, Mayo and Roscommon, and this gives us the information we need to make positive changes for the younger children coming behind them.

This booklet has been developed to bring some of that information to parents who have children in national school and to introduce the idea of parents working together more, in order to improve outcomes for all of our children.

Having good routines in place from a young age will pay off quickly but also over time will make for happier, healthier children, teenagers and young adults. We hope you find the booklet useful.

The November 2022 survey showed us that:

91%

of our teens said it's easy to get caring and warmth from parents

56%

of our teens are not getting enough sleep

58%

of our teens spend three hours or more on social media every day

67%

of our teens reported good physical health

Parents Working Together

Family Time

Our time is one of the greatest gifts we can give our children and setting time aside each day creates the opportunity and space to chat with them and listen to what they have to say.

Here are just a few good reasons why this is so important.

It strengthens family bonds

It improves communication

It builds children's self-esteem

It develops positive behaviours

It can help your child to do better in school

Connecting

Throughout their lives, it is important that we connect with our children. Building time into each day to really listen to and notice them lets us show them that their experiences and feelings are acknowledged and understood.

Stepping into their shoes to try and see the world as they see it is a great way to do this.

Some things to do together

Doing things together doesn't have to mean spending money: some of the simplest things are the best.

Regular family meals

Take an interest in their friends and schoolwork

Play together, try traditional board games

Make a regular family night

Try out new hobbies and sports

When times are busy, use a car ride to talk

Sleep and Bedtimes

Children who have regular and good quality sleep have improved attention, behaviour, learning, memory, and better mental and physical health.

From 6-12 years old, children typically need 9-12 hours of sleep each night and although each child is different, a good guide would be to move their bedtime up 15 minutes each school year.

Relaxing before bed

Reduce screen time and sugary foods and drinks in the hours leading up to bedtime. You can help your child settle and relax for sleep by keeping activities quiet in the hour before bed. For example, you could play gentle music or read a story together. Making a bath part of your child's bedtime routine can also help with relaxation.

Bedtime routine

A bedtime routine is very important at this age.

For example, a child who normally goes to bed at 7.30 might have a bedtime routine that looks like this:

6.45 pm:
put on pyjamas,
brush teeth,
go to the toilet.

7.15 pm:
quiet time in the
bedroom with a book
and a bedtime story
or quiet chat.

7.30 pm:
goodnight
and lights out.

Screen Time

Evidence suggests that if a child spends a lot of time on screens during childhood it can affect many important aspects of their life. Things like sleep, obesity, behaviour, and learning can all be impacted.

However, screens are part of family life now. They are used for staying connected, for entertainment and even for school and schoolwork.

What is important though, is that screens don't overtake family life or prevent us from being physically active during the day.

Top Screen Time Tips For Parents

1. Rules

Agree on a clear set of rules in your home about screen use and screen time.

2. Screen Free Zone

Having no screens in bedrooms is best.

3. Handing up screens

It's good to have the routine established of handing over screens every evening at a set time.

4. Join In

Watch screen content with your child or play their favourite game together. They can learn how to behave online while interacting with you.

5. Make use of apps

There are useful apps available to monitor and limit screen use and downloads. Avail of these and understand internet safety.

6. Digital Detox

One evening a week try a family digital detox and plan an activity together.

7. Lead By Example

Your own actions are the most powerful way you can influence your child's behaviour. Be mindful of your own screen use.

Sports and Hobbies

All children should be active, at a moderate to vigorous level, for at least 60 minutes every day, and including muscle strengthening, flexibility and bone strengthening exercises three times a week is recommended.

That may sound a lot, but little things add up and have a big overall effect.

Getting active

Make activity part of the routine, like household jobs, walking after dinner or walking to and from school.

Have some simple games and sports equipment around. Balls and skipping ropes can keep children busy for hours.

Be active together. It'll get you moving, and children love to play with their parents.

Allow time for play. Children can burn more calories and have more fun when left to their own devices.

Trying something new

Hobbies and sports are rewarding and enriching parts of all our lives, so encourage your child to explore their interests.

They'll learn new skills and make new friends, build confidence, and discover themselves more.

Maybe you could try out new hobbies or sports together.

Six steps towards change

1. Keep it simple

Instead of trying to change lots of things at once, pick one thing you want to work on first.

2. Involve everybody

Sit together and come up with a plan on any change you would like to make as a family.

3. Set goals and write them down

Start small as you can build on these first steps over time.

4. Expect some resistance

Your child may not like new rules or things being different and may test boundaries. Understand that this is normal.

5. Give yourself a chance

Changes take time so be patient and don't get discouraged. Keep going.

6. Look for support

Making changes can be difficult, so look for help. A sibling or a friend can give you suggestions and provide support to help you succeed. Other parents are also a great resource.

“ Sometimes the smallest step in the right direction ends up being the biggest step of your life. ”

Making Changes at Home

If there are new things you'd like to introduce, or changes you'd like to make, here are some steps to think about.

Parents Working Together

The support of other parents is really valuable.

Try to get to know the other parents in your child's class. Knowing the other parents, networking and attending school events are all important and a well-known protective factor for our children.

Good parent networks are also an effective way to support children's learning, development and wellbeing.

Your class at school

Parents can achieve a huge amount by getting together and working out shared expectations and boundaries.

Some issues that parents can work together and agree on are:

Birthday parties and presents

Screen time

Age appropriate games

Communications

Bullying

Mobile phones

And so on, it's up to you to decide...

NEXT ➔

STEPS

There is an opportunity for class groups of parents to develop this idea a bit further.

By working together, parents can come to a consensus and develop agreements on issues that affect their children.

If, as a parent, or as a principal or teacher, you feel this is something that your class or school would like to work on together, then visit the Parent Power section of the Planet Youth website for more information.
